Construction of a cable car in Namur between Place Maurice Servais in the heart of the city and the Esplanade de la Citadelle. The cable car will span the River Sambre and the Citadel's ramparts and land 650 metres away, at a height of 103 metres. A journey of about 3-4 minutes that takes residents and tourists alike, floating between heaven and earth.

The city launched a public works concession that includes the design and operation of a cable car and a catering facility. We surrounded ourselves with specialists in the field: Poma for the cabins and Labellemontagne for the operation of the cable car. The concession contract runs for 30 years.
